Stahl of Trinity Methodist Epis opal Church and other representatives of individual churches of different denominations. Among the visitors present was William B. Matthews, the president of the Washington District Epworth League, who was introduced to the meeting and greeted with applause.

After a short session of the executive committee James L. Ewin, first vice president, called the meeting to order. A verse of the hymn, "Work, for the Night Is Coming," was sung, with Miss Josephine Gillenwater at the organ. Prayer was of-fered by Rev. F. J. Clark, and the work of the annual meeting was then proceeded New Representatives.

Work of the Year.

Mr. Ewin, on behalf of the president of the league and of the executive committee, submitted a report. The league, he said, has great reason to congratulate itself in having proved a very successful experiment, an organization of "kindred spirits," as permanent, at least, as the traffic in "ardent spirits." Throughout the year, the report further said, the league has continued with the shortest possible interruptions to keep an officially recognized representative before the successive excise boards. Mr. Ewin also stated that thanks are due to several persons for services rendered in furthering the work of the league. All the standing committees, exthe committee on literature, he said, have been actively at work throughout the year, the committee on literature being prevented from entering at once upon its work by the condition of the treasury of the league.

Only about 3,500 communications against the granting of liquor licenses had been distributed. Mr. Ewin said, but the liquor dealers were never so frightened by any thing of the sort before. It is too early, the speaker said, to tell the effect of the work of the league on the grant of licenses for the new year, but of the first batch of cases 28 out of 88 were held up temporarfly, at least, and many final rejections are confidently expected.

The Mass Meetings.

Mr. Ewin referred to what is known as the "ice water work," and then said that the mass meetings held during the year had all been important in three particulars: First as occasions for speaking to the public face to face; second, as occasions for speaking to the wider public through the newspapers, which, he said, ity, and third, as occasions for taking plate league financially. udgment," Mr. Ewin said in conclusion, a great future before it, provided only it adheres to the principles now incorporated in its constitution, and continues to do the one work for which it is called, which is to enlist and apply consecrated and concentrated effort against the weakest spot fabric of the drink habit, known as Refore resuming the chair Mr. Ewin also read his report as chairman of the committee on co-operation. From this report it appeared that ten additional organizations, actuding churches, had joined the league during the past year, as follows: Grace Chapter, E. L.; Silver Star Lodge, I. O. G. T.: Newman Loyal Temperance Legion, Rescue Lodge, I. O. G. T.; Young Men's Christian Endeavor Union, Grand Lodge, I. O. G. T., and Washington District Epworth The report set forth further that twenty-one organizations were now contributing regularly from 50 cents to $2 per month, against nine at the beginning of the Various Reports.

Col. Vinal's report as chairman of the committee on legislation set forth the work of the league before Congress at its last session, including its opposition to the Babcock amendment, and recommended on behalf of the committee two amendments of the liquor law to be offered at the present session of Congress.

R. A. Dinsmore of the committee on mass meetings made a report, calling attention to the Neal Dow celebration and other public meetings of the league during the post year as among the most important that had ever been held here or elsewhere. Officers' reports were then submitted by Mrs. H. A. Gillenwater, recording secretary; Albert E. Shoemaker, corresponding secretary, and J. S. Blackford, treasurer. The report of the latter showed a small balance in the treasury of the league, and was referred to an auditing committee, consisting of Jesse C. Suter, Andrew Wilson and F. J.

Mackenzie. Mrs. Gillenwater's report was enlivened by witticisms, which occasioned laughter and gave, in detail, the resolutions and orders adopted by the league and executive ing the past year, beginning with a resolution of thanks to The Evening Star for its utterances on the Shea-Cleveland matter. Mr. Shoemaker reported that he had been engaged more or less of the time in league work as corresponding secretary, owing to the efficiency of the recording secretary.

The election of officers was then proceded Rev. Luther B. Wilson, D. D.; first vice president, Jas. L. Ewin; second vice president, Mrs. Margaret B. Platt; third vice president, A. L. Swartwout; chaplain, Rev. Frederick D. Power, D. D.; recording secretary, Mrs. H. A. Gillenwater; corresponding secretary, Walter E. Allen; treasurer, J. S. Blackford, and doorkeeper, Jesse C. Su-

THE CARLISLE BILL

It Was Indorsed by the House Democratic Caucus Yesterday.

But the Vote Was So Light That the Defeat of the Measure is Feared.

By a vote of 81 to 59 the democratic House caucus voted yesterday to indorse the Carlisle substitute currency bill, now before the House. Speaker Crisp took the lead in presenting the resolution and in vigorously urging the necessity of its adoption. The committee on rules was instructed to bring in a rule to close the debate. Efforts to amend Mr. Crisp's resolution were voted down, one of the adverse votes showing only thirteen members of the caucus favorable to an issue of bonds to retire greenbacks. The result of the caucus is accepted with considerable apprehension by friends of the bill, notwithstanding the passage of the resolution of indorsement. The 81 votes which the measure commanded in caucus is far short of the number necessary to pass it in the House. It is believed by some that many of the 59 votes recorded against the resolution will be changed now that the Carlisle bill has the prestige of caucus indorsement. But there were several prominent leaders who asserted at the close of the caucus the vote showed conclusively that the bill ould not pass.

Brief speeches were made in the caucus by Representatives Cox of Tennessee, Coombs of New York, Bailey of Texas, Swanson of Virginia, Coffeen of Wyoming, McRae of Arkansas, Washington of Ten-nessee, Bryan of Nebraska, and Sperry of Connecticut. They showed a very wide divergence of individual views. Mr. Soerry closed his remarks by offering an amend ment to the pending resolution, by which the Sperry bill, for an issue of bonds to refund the greenbacks, was to be substi-tuted as the ore on which the caucus was to express its approval. Mr. Johnson of Ohio, a member of the banking and currency committee, followed in opposition to the resolution and to G. of R., Miss Womersley; G. of E., Mrs. the Carlisle bill. Mr. Terry of Arkansas Kerper; G. of T., Mrs. Ober; G. of M., Miss also submitted an amendment proposing as the sense of the caucus a bill authorizing each state to buy silver bullion to the amount of $1 for each inhabitant, and send the same to the United States treasury to be coined and returned to the several states. This closed the speechmaking and the submission of amendments and voting began.

The Terry amendment was voted on first and was defeated, 54 yeas to 64 nays. The Sperry amendment was also defeated by 13 yeas to 70 nays. The last vote was regarded as significant in showing the limited strength of the plan to issue bonds to retire the greenbacks. The thirteen voting for the amendment were Messrs. Sperof Connecticut, Harter of Ohio, Strauss of New York, Brickner of Wisconsin, Wells of Wisconsin, Coombs of New York, Lock-wood of New York, Fielder of New Jersey, Hendrix of New York, Tracey of New York, McAleer of Pennsylvania, Deforest of Connecticut, Pierson of Ohio.

The question then recurred on the original resolution to indorse the Carlisle sub stitute bill. It was decided to divide the resolution so as to have separate votes on the indorsement of the bill and on the instructions to the committee on rules. first part indorsing the bill was carried by a vote of 81 to 59. The second part di recting the rules committee to bring in a rule was adopted without division and the eaucus adjourned.

Col. Heyl's Funeral.

The remains of Col. Edward Milton Heyl, United States army, late inspector general of the Department of the Missouri, who died in Chicago on Wednesday, were laid away in Arlington cemetery Sunday af-Perts; C. of M., James J. Hayne; R. S., C. away in Arlington cemetery Sunday af-W. Grigsby; F. S., Katie Walters; T., G. H. ternoon, with the military honors due to his rank and station. The body arrived in a special car in the afternoon, in charge of Lieut, West, the detailed escort, and was accompanied by Mrs. Heyl, her children, two sisters and several friends.

Wrapped in a United States flag, the casket was borne to the caisson in waiting, and the cortege moved out to Arlington. Among those assembled to receive the body were Secretary Lamont, Assistant Secretary Doe, Gen. Ruger, comman der of the Department of the Missouri, Gen. W. J. Sewell, and the following honorary pallbearers: Gen. Joseph C. Breckinridge, Col. H. C. Corbin, Col. G. H. Burton, Maj. W. P. Hall, Col. Geo. W. Davis, Col. Charles H. Alden, Col. John M. Col. J. B. Babcock. At the end of the Aqueduct bridge on the Virginia side four troops of the Fort Myer cavalry met the party, and fell in line in advance of the caisson, serving as mounted escort. Rev. Dr. Harding of St. Paul's Church corducted the religious services, which were brief, but solemnly impressive. They were ended by the firing party giving the regulation salute of three volleys over the grave, the bugler sounding "taps Mrs. Heyl and her children left last night

Florida Warned of the Cold Snap. Prof. Harrington, chief of the weather bureau, has made a report to the Secretary elected officers as follows: President, Louis
J. Frisard (second term); vice president,
Florida were fully warned of the recent Florida were fully warned of the recent cold wave nearly twenty-four hours in advance. The warnings were given in the usual way. "The fact of the matter is," said Secretary Morton, commenting on this report, "that the public pays altogether too little heed to the warnings printed on the weather maps, unless special attention is in some way called to them by editorial notices in the papers, or otherwise. It is quite impossible for the bureau to italicize ts forecasts and warnings whenever these happen to indicate unusual weather conditions. People must learn to look out for the weather predictions and to read them intelligently.

Not Entitled to Mileage.

The accounting officers of the treasury have disallowed the claim of Col. Comstock and Lieut. Zinn of the engineer corps for mileage for that portion of a recent trip on public business made on a government vessel. Army officers traveling under orders are allowed 8 cents a mile for the distance covered, but they are always required to take the shortest route. The two officers named recently made a long trip under orders, 1,144 miles of which was on a vessel belonging to the government. There is an old law, the wording of which is somewhat ambiguous and led the officers to believe they were entitled to mileage for this portion of the trip, which was performed without expense to them, as well as for the other portion of the trip, for which they had to pay. The accounting officers decided that mileage was not a proper charge against the government under the circumstances of this case.

What Gen. Dumont Says.

Inspector General Dumont, who is at the head of the steamboat inspection service, informed a Star reporter that he did not care to discuss the attack made against hls administration by a New ork newspaper further than to say that the article in question was simply a rehash of old charges which are res adjudicata, having already been investigated and disproved.

Illness of Senator Irby.

Word has reached the city that Senator Irby is now quite ill at his home, Laurens, South Carolina. While no immediate apprehension for the Senator's condition is felt, it is known that his ailment is by no means trivial, and it is not expected that he will return quickly to Washington. Mr. Irby came here to resume his duties at the beginning of the session in December, and was then so ill that he did not leave his room at the National Hotel, and was here ten days without going to the Capitol. On the advice of his physician he returned to Laurens, and has been there since. It is understood that he is afflicted with some heart affection, and his friends here are anxiously awaiting for the news from his home. Nothing definite is known here as to how he is progressing.

FOR DYSPEPSIA

MUSICIANS PUNISHED.

Members of the Marine Band Leave Before an Entertainment is Over. The game of "living whist" which was They as Well as the Tactics Are to Be played at Metzerott Hall Saturday evening was a most enjoyable entertainment and netted a handsome sum for charity Society people regard it as a success in every way, but there are those who look upon the whole affair as in the nature of a delusion and a square. These are some of the unlucky bandsmen who furnished the music for the dances and the other features of the evening. They played in scenes of festive gayety, and now they are confined to the grim precincts of barracks as a result of what seems to have savored slightly of insubordination.

When orders were promulgated from headquarters directing a section of the Marine Band to be on hand at Metzerott Hall to furnish the music, under the direc tion of Prof. Fanciulli, it was with the unlerstanding that they should play on as long as they were needed. In point of fact, toward the close of the evening, but before the closing dance, the lights went down for a moment, and some of the people started to leave the hall. Fanciulli had left his place temporarily for the purpose of conferring with some of the leaders with reference to the balance of the pro-

When he came back to resume leader ship he discovered that thirteen of the orchestra had hurriedly packed up their instruments and left the hall. Only four still remained, and these were busy ting ready to go. The leader ordered them to stay, however, and the dance went on with a lesser band. The incident gave rise to some little talk at the time, but it did not end with that evening. When Prof. Fanciulli came to make his report yesterday he mentioned the incident of Saturnight, and the officer in command looked upon it as amounting to disobe requiring purishment.

The defense put in by the men was that they were justified in leaving the hall, as they thought that the lights were being put out and the entertainment was over This was not a sufficient excuse under the circumstances, as it was decided that they should have waited to be formally dis-missed by their leader. The result of it was that ar order has been issued re-stricting the thirteen men to the barracks for ten days. They are obliged to report at the barracks every morning at 8 o'clock and remain until sunset in the evening each being allowed an hour at noon for Prof. Fanciulli's View.

In conversation with a Star reporter this afternoon Prof. Fanciulli stated that, in his opinion, all of his men, with perhaps one or two exceptions, acted in good faith corporal, and this squad is the basis of the when they left the hall, honestly believing system of extended order, which has bethat the performance was over. They were only a little over hasty. He had nothing to do with the infliction of punishment, that resting with the commanding officer of the post. In his report he mentioned the incident, and confinement to barrack bounds followed. Prof. Fanciulli has made an appeal for clemency for his men, and expects that by tomorrow their sentences will be remitted. He says that what with official receptions and private entertainments his men have been overworked of late and he thinks that, considering the small remuneration they receive, they have been doing extremely well. For some time past he has been laboring, as did Sousa before him, to have salaries in the Marine Band raised to a reasonable amount, and he thinks that the incident of last Saturday evening may serve in a way to bring up the mat-

Revised.

Result of a Conference That Was Held With the Secretary of War Last Week.

The recent visit to this city of Brig. Gen. Ruger, commanding the Department of the Missouri, and Brig. Gen. Otis, commanding the Department of the Columbia, is likely to result in important changes in the matter of army regulations and tactics. These officers held long conferences with Secretary Lamont in regard to certain improvements in the service, and the result was that Gen. Otis was instructed to make a thorough revision of the army regulation recently prepared by a board of officers in the adjutant general's department, and Gen. Ruger was entrusted with the special work of revising infantry drill regulations on a plane similar to the recent revision of the light artillery drill regulations.

The changes made in the existing tactics

by the new drill regulations are so extensive that considerable time is necessary to their consideration before putting them into practical operation. The tactics have undergone many changes in recent years Hardee's superseded Scott's and had a run of about six years, when they were ceeded by Casey's tactics, which ran about the same period and were then superseded by Upton's tactics. The latter system remained in operation about four times as long as either of its predecessors, but it too finally gave way to the present system. The latter is under course of revision, but it will probably be some time before the work is completed and ready to be put into actual service. Increased simplicity and mobility are the prime objects of the new system. Whatever in the old tactics could be dispensed with altogether or performed with greater rapidity and ease has been made the subject of improvement. example, no hesitation was felt in abolishing the old "support arms" or in making a single movement from "order arms" to right shoulder arms." In marching, the rapid right and left turn has been substituted for the slow wheeling, except in columns of files er of fours. The double column and movement by divisions and the wings of battalions have been stricken out altogether. The unit of organization has become the squad of four files, under their come the appliance for skirmishing. Gen-erally speaking, the new system aims at that greater rapidity and freedom from formality which modern warfare seems to demand in military operations.

CRISIS FOR IRELAND.

Mr. Gladstone Points Out the Necessity for Harmony Among Leaders. . A special cable dispatch to the New York World from London says:

The division between the McCarthy and the Healy wing of the nationalist party, to | which I referred in my cable dispatch of last Saturday, has reached such a sudden and bitter climax that Justin McCarthy has writen a letter to the effect that unless Ireland unmistakably repudiates Healy's fresh revolt it will be useless, if not imthat $28,526 are to be deducted, leaving possible, for him (McCarthy) to continue in the leadership.

"My interest in Ireland and her cause," he said, "will continue unabated as long as life remains to me, and if I were entitled to advise Irishmen I should counsel unity among all Irish nationalists as the first essential of success. Discord must necessarily mean the adjournment of the claims of Ireland, and no more sacred duty could fall to any man than that of bringing about harmonious relations between all the Irish nationalists in the work of recovering her legislative rights. Those who promote discord assume a terrible responsibility before their country.

"Is there not any Irish-American, or any American in that country where friendship for Ireland is universal, who could act as an intermediary in bringing about concord between the Irish nationalists?" Mr. O'Connor replied that Dr. Addis Emmet, probably the most highly respected Irishman in America, had come over specially to intervene, and had warmly indorsed the action of the majority of the party as opposed to the factious course of the malcontents; but still Ireland is threatened with a fresh attack upon majority rule as represented by Mr. McCarthy's following.

JUDGE BUCHWALTER CONTRADICT-

Gov. Brown of Kentucky Declares His

Statements Inadequate. Gov. Brown of Kentucky issued a statement last night on the refusal of Judge Buchwalter of Cincinnati to surrender Hampton, the colored preacher held, on | in the evening he went to a barber shop presentation of requisition, saying after the requisition was issued on Gov. McKinley he should have seen it executed.

"The statements of the judge are grossly inadequate. His argument is a mere subterfuge and quibble. He has usurped the preregatives of the governor of his state He has deliberately refused to execute the plain command of a law of the United States, and subordinated it to his own He has reproached Kentucky for crime of which his own great state is not guiltless. He has accepted the statements of a fugitive from justice that he feared unlawful revenge if remanded as a sufficient reason for his discharge. The statutes in Ohio, in so far as they may prescribe methods and conditions supplementary to and inconsistent with the United States law on the subject of extradition, must be admitted to be void. This proposition no one will dispute. No lawyer will claim that Judge Buchwalter's decision is sustained by any precedent in the country. If it shall have effect it will be fruitful as a discord where harmony and good should prevail. If followed by the judiciary of Ohic it will make that state the and paradise of all the murderers, thieves and rapists of the south. The invitation and assurance of welcome and protection to criminals are given by the proclamation of Judge Euchwalter."

THE BRIDEGROOM WAS DEAD.

Suicide on the Evening Set for His

George W. Davis, aged twenty-six years, a claim agent of the Lake Shore railroad, committed suicide last evening at Cleveland under peculiar circumstances. Early with his brother and they returned together to their home. He seemed cheerful as usual. Going to a spare bed room he lit the gas, sat down on a chair before a mirror, put his feet on another chair and shot himself in the temple, the bullet passng entirely through his head. He had not een dead an hour when there came to the house two little girls, who inquired for him and explained that their sister, whom he was to marry last evening, was waiting for him at her home. Davis' family was amazed, as they knew nothing of his intention to marry. The young lady is Miss Anna Noonan, an intelligent and handsome girl, employed in one of the hospitals. Davis was to have met her last evening at her home, her parents knowing of their intentions. They were to have gone to Rev. R. A. George of Trinity Congregational Church to be married, and had planned a short trip. Miss Noonan was greatly distressed by the sad affair, but bore up well. It is un
